

Appendix A – Clarifications and additional information - Marine Archaeological Assessment, Annex D

This note reproduces sections of the Marine Archaeology Assessment, Annex D of the application documents incorporating clarification text and additional information regarding documented losses to demonstrate how the archaeological potential of the survey area has influenced the archaeological impact statement and mitigation strategy. The key additions and clarifications which have been made are summarised in the following table.

1.1. Clarification on marine archaeology receptors

The term marine archaeology receptors are defined as

- (a) Known receptors for example, physical resources such as shipwrecks, aviation remains, archaeological sites, archaeological finds and material including pre-historic deposits and
- (b) Unknown receptors such as documented losses or other archival documents and/or oral accounts of wrecking events recognised as of historical/ archaeological or cultural significance.

1.2. Wrecks and documented losses

- 1.2.1. The Wrecks and documented losses section has been updated and added to this Appendix as a whole section for contexts. The changes include updated details on some of the known wrecks and one added heading (Documented losses) which contains information previously presented within the Marine Archaeological Assessment, Annex D of the Application documents and additional information following more detailed research.
- 1.2.2. Multiple datasets were used in the compilation of this baseline assessment. The reference number for each entry is written in bold (e.g., W10597 or GSI 289) for ease of identification. Where there were duplicate entries, the INFOMAR data point was used as these represent surveys of higher resolution. One wreck did not have a reference number and was assigned as MA01 but has since been found to correspond to a charted, unknown wreck W09300 and will be referred to as such. Five unidentified and uncharted wrecks were located during geophysical investigation in 2021, these have all been given MA ID numbers.
- 1.2.3. There are a total of 121 known, unknown and uncharted wrecks. This total is divided into 25 known wreck records, 90 unknown, and six uncharted wrecks within the Foreshore Licence area as described below. All wrecks discussed here are also detailed in and Figure 1 and Annex 1.
- 1.2.4. There are also over 3000 documented losses off the coastal waters of Dublin, however only a small percentage have been located as detailed below.

Known wrecks

- 1.2.5. There are 25 known wreck records within the Foreshore Licence area as described below. The known wrecks are presented in Figure 1 and Annex 1.
- 1.2.6. The Loch Fergus (W01828; see Figure 1) was an iron barque, built at Glasgow by Henderson D. and W. & Co. Ltd., Meadowside and owned by J. Sproat & Co., Liverpool, the master was T. Williams. The vessel had a gross tonnage of 847 and measured 61.6 x 10.1 x 5.7 m. On 6 February 1899, Loch Fergus was sailing from Glasgow to Brisbane with general cargo when strong gales forced the vessel to run aground in Killiney Bay, Co. Dublin. All crew survived. The vessel is listed as LIVE by the UKHO.

- 1.2.7. The Fern (SS) was a 444-ton steamship built in 1900 in Glasgow by the Ailsa Shipbuilding Company and owned by the Laird Line (W02012; see Figure 1). On 22 April 1918, while en route from Dublin to Heysham with a load of general cargo, it was torpedoed by the German submarine U-104 and sank.
- 1.2.8. The Fisher Lass was a 13 ton 25-year-old Irish motor fishing boat (D166) owned by John O'Byrne of Ringsend. It was lost on the 1 October 1929 after catching fire off Howth Head the vessel sank 7 miles east of Ireland's Eye. One of the three crew was lost (W02014; see Figure 1).
- 1.2.9. The Hare (SS) was a 774 ton, 31-year-old British steam ship owned by George Lowen of Manchester. Built by Barclay Curle & Co., measuring 66 x 8.8 x 4.6 m. On 14 December 1917 it was torpedoed and sunk by German submarine U-62 en route from Manchester (W02024; see Figure 1).
- 1.2.10. The RMS Leinster was a 2,646 ton, 22-year-old steel twin screw steamer built in Birkenhead, Liverpool, by Lairds. Owned by the City of Dublin Steam Packet Company and captained by William Birch, the ship measured 110 x 13 x 8.2 m. Leinster was lost en route from Dun Laoghaire to Holyhead on 10 October 1918 (W02039; see Figure 1).
- 1.2.11. HMS Vanguard was one of four Audacious class, ironclad battleships built by Cammel Laird & Co. Birkenhead, England, at a cost of £355,000 in 1909. The 6,034-ton vessel was powered by steam and sail and was capable of attaining speeds up to 14 knots. The ship's loss, on 9 July 1917, was considered to be caused by the deterioration of high explosives (W02099; see Figure 1).
- 1.2.12. The SS Flying Dart (W00883; see Figure 1) was an iron paddle steamer tug built in 1882 by J.T. Eltringham of South Shields. In 1890, the vessel was en route to Dublin Bay when it collided with a cattle steamship, the North Wall of Dublin. It sank within 20 minutes, but its six crew were rescued. The wreck measures 27.7m long, 4m wide, and is on an E-W orientation at a general depth of 28m.
- 1.2.13. The Trustful is the only known wreck recorded on the Bray Bank (W01593; see Figure 1). The Trustful was a steam-powered fishing drifter built in 1906 by Carnegie, Peterhead. The vessel had a gross tonnage of 87 and measured 25.6 x 5.8 x 2.9 m. It was fitted with a cylinder compound engine by Hall A. & Sons Ltd. On 29 December 1924, Trustful was fishing off Bray Head, Co. Wicklow when, during a south-westerly gale, the vessel took on a lot of water. The engine room was flooded and at approximately 17:00 pm the vessel anchored and set off flares. The crew took to a lifeboat and abandoned the vessel. The boiler then exploded and the Trustful foundered. After several hours, the lifeboat was picked up by Kingstown pilot boat, landed and the crew taken to Dublin. The wreck's status is DEAD.
- 1.2.14. The Glenorchy (W01572; see Figure 1) was a fully rigged sailing ship built in 1868 by McMillan A. & Son Ltd. and owned by Gow A. C. & Co., Glasgow. The vessel's gross tonnage was 1348 and it measured 60 x 20 x 5 m. The vessel wrecked after striking the Kish Bank on 1 January 1869 on its maiden voyage from Glasgow to Bombay with a cargo of iron, coal and spirits.

- 1.2.15. The Sir Charles Napier (W01588; see Figure 1) was a merchant vessel built in 1841 by Miramichi, New Brunswick, Canada and was owned by Locketts of London. The vessel's gross tonnage is 638 and measured 30 x 7.5 x 1.2 m. On 19 November 1875, the Sir Charles Napier ran aground on the Kish Bank due to a navigation error. One man was lost. The wreck is listed as LIVE. Another unknown wreck on the Kish Bank has been recorded as the possible remains of the Sir Charles Napier (W01629).
- 1.2.16. The Vesper (SS) (W01594; see Figure 1) was an iron merchant steamer of Hartlepool, built in Dundee by Barclay Curle and Company, with a nominal horsepower of 60. One of the ship's owners was Huntley Burne & Co. The vessel had a gross tonnage of 478 and measured 54.8 x 7.8 x 3 m. During a voyage from Glasgow to Dunkirk the Vesper wrecked on the Kish Bank on 13 January 1876 and broke into two. The wreck has been listed as LIVE.
- 1.2.17. The HMD Deliverer (W01561; see Figure 1) was a 79-ton steam drifter sunk by a submarine in 1917 with no survivors. An explosion at the bridge separated the vessel, with the forward hold and bow lying 10m from the main wreck. It lies on a NW/SE orientation in a general depth of 23m.
- 1.2.18. The SS Lanarkshire (W01575; see Figure 1) was a 929-ton steamship en route from Glasgow to Lisbon in 1882 with a cargo of coal when it ran aground on the Codling Bank in bad weather. It was built by Blackwood & Gordon of Glasgow and measured 64m long, 8.5m wide and 6.4m tall. The wreck remains in good condition. The wreck is listed as LIVE.
- 1.2.19. The SS Flying Hawk (W01790; see Figure 1) was a 61-ton iron steam tug built in Glasgow. It was en route from Kingstown to tow a vessel in 1887 when it struck a rock in bad weather and sank. The wreck is now broken up and scattered in 5-10m of water, with metal sheeting, propeller, and engine still visible. The wreck is listed as LIVE.
- 1.2.20. The SS Marlay (W02049; see Figure 1) was a 789-ton steel steam collier, built in 1890 by Workman Clarke & Co. of Belfast. In 1902 it was bound for Dublin with a cargo of coal when it ran into bad weather and sank quickly with 15 men lost and one survivor. This incident led to the foundation of a Widows and Orphans fund to help their families. The wreck measures 61m long, 10.5m wide and stands 7.14m high on an NE-SW orientation. The hull is largely intact, with coal scattered around the wreck and is listed as LIVE by the UKHO.
- 1.2.21. The SS John Morrison (W02367; see Figure 1) is a 202-ton steam barquentine which measured 32m long by 7.6 m wide, with a draft of 12.4ft. Whilst en route from Waterford to Liverpool in 1925 with a cargo of pit props and timber, it struck bolts projecting from the pier while leaving Wicklow Harbour, damaging it, and causing it to sink. The wreck was dispersed.
- 1.2.22. W09785 (see Figure 1) represents cargo debris from the Kilkenny, which sank in 1991. The wreck itself was lifted in 1992.
- 1.2.23. W09505 (see Figure 1) is a fishing boat named the Bydand which sank in 1989 after it collided with another fishing vessel, the Dietier.
- 1.2.24. The Privet (W09962; see Figure 1) is a fishing vessel which sank while trawling 1.7km SE of Poolbeg Lighthouse in 1988.

- 1.2.25. HMS Guide Me II (W01482; see Figure 1) was an anti-submarine drifter built in 1907. It was converted to an armed patrol vessel in 1915. It sank in a collision with the SS Glengarriff of Cork in 1918 and now lies at a general depth of 32-35m. It lies on an WNW-ESE orientation and the wreck measures 28.5m long, 5.5m wide, and has a maximum height of 3m. It's forward gun and bell have been recovered by divers.
- 1.2.26. PSS Queen Victoria (W00910; see Figure 1) sank in 1853, 230m south of Howth Head. It was a 337-ton, 150ft long paddle steamer built in 1837. It was en route to Dublin with general cargo when it ran into a snowstorm and in the poor visibility the vessel ran aground on Howth Head. It then tried to reverse away, but the manoeuvre caused it to sink rapidly with the loss of between 50 and 83 lives. It now lies in 18m of water on a NW-SE orientation below Baily Lighthouse. The wreck measures 17.5m long and 7.5m wide, with a maximum height of 3.4m. It is largely broken up, but the paddle wheels and boiler are still clearly visible. Numerous artefacts from the wreck have been recovered.
- 1.2.27. The Aid (W02313; see Figure 1) was a 149-ton brig built in Quebec in 1802 en route from Leghorn to Dublin via Bristol, laden with a valuable cargo of Roman, Greek and Egyptian antiquities owned by Lord Cloncurry and William Moore. The vessel encountered a violent storm and struck the Ardynary Bank; capsizing in 1804. The wreck was presumed to have been towed ashore 3 miles north of Wicklow. Lord Cloncurry's memoirs alternatively record the loss of the vessel in Killiney Bay. Much of the rigging and some cargo was salvaged from the vessel and brought to Wicklow Customs House to be auctioned. A wreck (W18550) off Killougher strand was surveyed in July 1987 by DUSAC, but the survey failed to confirm if the wreck was that of the Aid
- 1.2.28. Rose of Lough Gill (W09984; see Figure 1) was a fishing boat that sank in 1995 off Codling Bank.
- 1.2.29. The last two identified wrecks are the bow and stern sections from the same vessel, the MV Bolivar (W09480 and W09846; see Figure 1), a Norwegian motor vessel cargo ship built in 1946 by Akers Mekaniske Verksted A/S, Oslo. The vessel was owned by Olsen Fred, had a gross tonnage of 5320 and measured 135.7 x 17.5 x 8.3 m. On 4 March 1947, MV Bolivar was on its maiden voyage to South America, via Dublin and Liverpool, however it ran aground in a snowstorm off the Kish Bank and sank. The vessel's extant remains are laden with explosives. The status of the wreck is LIVE.

Unknown wrecks

- 1.2.30. There are 90 unknown wrecks within the Foreshore Licence area. The unknown wrecks are presented in Figure 1 and Annex 1.
- 1.2.31. One unknown wreck (W10597; see Figure 1) is recorded offshore, approximately 6 km east of Shankill, Co. Dublin. No further information is known. The status of the wreck is unknown.
- 1.2.32. Five unknown wrecks have been recorded on the Codling Bank (W11360, W11361, W11365, W11366 and W11367; see Figure 1). Their locations are approximate and their status' unknown.

- 1.2.33. Also, off Codling Bank, with only approximate location and status and no further details, are W11342, W11343, W11344, W11345, W11346, W11347, W11348, W11349, W11350, W11351, W11352, W11353, W11354, W11355, W11356, W11357, W11358, W11359, W11362, W11363, W11364, W11368, and W11369.
- 1.2.34. An unknown wreck (W01544; see Figure 1), with wooden frames, was discovered by a Dutch dredging company in June 1989 near Poolbeg Lighthouse while excavating for a new sewer pipe. The wreck measured c. 4.5 m in width and was evidently carrying a cargo of tightly packed, uncut slates. The vessel lies in 3-5 m of water, buried 0.5 m beneath sand. It was reburied following the completion of the sewer works.
- 1.2.35. An unknown wooden wreck, known as the 'Ringsend Wreck' (W01734; see Figure 1), became exposed during dredging operations for the Dublin Bay pipeline in April 2001. The wreck was a composite build of wood and iron, with several structural pieces revealed during excavation, including: three timbers that could form part of a keelson; carvel planking, with evidence for iron and wooden fastenings in the form of treenails and dowels; an iron knee with bronze fastenings; and a number of iron concretions, musket balls and bullets (it is not clear if these were related to the wreck or were stray finds).
- 1.2.36. W18522 (see Figure 1) was also discovered during the pipeline project and is a wooden wreck lying 420m SE of Poolbeg Lighthouse. It measures 16.4m long, 5.5.m wide and stands 20cm proud of the seabed.
- 1.2.37. W01543 (see Figure 1) is a sunken yacht first reported in 1946 as dangerous to navigation. It was dispersed later that year.
- 1.2.38. W11566, W11567, W11568, W11569 all represent ship timbers that were redeposited from 2008-2011 near the 'Ringsend Wreck' in Dublin Bay (see Figure 1).
- 1.2.39. Two more records of the 'Ringsend wreck' are also recorded in the NMS (W11570 and W11571; see Figure 1). Based on the limited information from the excavations.ie website, these refer to the same wreck above (W01734) (<https://excavations.ie/report/2001/Dublin/0006399/>).
- 1.2.40. Two wrecks are marked on the Admiralty chart 1415 of Dublin (W01532 and W01533; see Figure 1). They are described as remains of wrecks and are located in Dublin Bay, approximately 1.5 km NE of the eastern pier head in Dun Laoghaire Harbour.
- 1.2.41. One of the five wrecks plotted on William Bligh's 1803 map of Dublin Bay is recorded just outside of the ECC. It is located in the shallow water at the entrance to 'Cock Lake' (W01731; see Figure 1). It was also plotted on John Taylor's 1816 map of Dublin. A second wreck from Bligh's 1803 map is W01526, is located in shallow water just off the South Bull.
- 1.2.42. An unknown wreck (W10596; see Figure 1) is located just off the South Bull with no further details available.
- 1.2.43. An 1874 map, compiled by J.H. Kerr, charts another two wrecks. The first, W01125, is located approximately 200m from the low spring water mark in approximately 1m of water. The second, W01126, is 700m out in 1.5m water.

- 1.2.44. Also on the North Bull is the unknown wreck W01143; there are no further details available for this vessel. Nearby, off the Bull, an unknown wooden wreck (W01548) was discovered during a survey for the Ringsend to Sutton pipeline. It measures 40m long by 10m wide, with two parallel rows of framing protruding through the seabed.
- 1.2.45. An admiralty/decoy ship (W01540; see Figure 1) lost in 1931, also lies off the North Bull. It is listed as a 'dangerous wreck' by the UKHO and lies in 2m of water.
- 1.2.46. Off the South Bull is another wreck (W11474; see Figure 1) with no further details available.
- 1.2.47. W11539 (see Figure 1) is east of Doldrum Bay but no further information is available on this wreck.
- 1.2.48. An unknown wreck (W02219; see Figure 1) is the possible wreck (INSS No. G154) identified during the National Seabed Survey. The wreck measures 37 x 13 x of 1 m and lies in a general sea depth of 58m.
- 1.2.49. There are several unknown wrecks which were identified as part of the Irish National Seabed Survey in 2008. The first, known by divers as the North Wreck, appears to be the remains of a barge or hopper (W11630) and measures 25 x 7.3 m. The second measures 26 x 8 m and lies at a depth of 42 m (W17989; see Figure 1).
- 1.2.50. A third and fourth possible wrecks were also identified; W01550 measures 24m long by 9m wide, with a height of 1m and lying at a general depth of 28m, while W01551 measures 3m long, 3m wide, 3m high and lies at a general depth of 9m.
- 1.2.51. W01552 is one of three anomalies also highlighted during the National seabed Survey indicating a possible wreck, and measures 3m long, 3m wide, and 2m high at a general depth of 8m. The second anomaly, W01553, measures 3m long, 3m wide, and 1m high at the same depth. The last, W01554, measures 2m long, 2m wide, and 1m high, and is also at a depth of 8m.
- 1.2.52. There are several further wrecks with scant details available: W10595 is a sailing ship lost approximately 130m SW of Muglins, close to W10596, listed as anchor and cable. W10598 is 2.3km east of Bray Head.
- 1.2.53. An unknown wooden wreck (W01630) was discovered on the Kish Bank by Marlin Sub Aqua Club in 2003. The vessel is partially exposed and upside down on the seabed. The hull of the vessel is copper sheathed and stands 1 m proud of the seabed, it measures 17 m in length.
- 1.2.54. Six unknown wrecks on the Kish Bank were detected in 2010 as part of the INFOMAR seabed mapping programme. Although the wrecks are unknown, dates of loss have been ascribed to two wrecks, however it is not clear where this information originated from. These wrecks are as follows:
- ▲ W08691, measuring 4 m in length and 1.8 m in maximum width and is recorded as being lost on 15 January 1802;
 - ▲ W09300, measuring 21.2 m in length and 3.7 m in maximum width and is recorded as being lost on 4 June 1800;

- ▲ W11332, a wooden wreck first identified in a geophysical survey carried out in 2008 by Browne and Stokes. It measures 26.5 m in length by 4.3 m in maximum width;
 - ▲ W11626, a wooden wreck, known as the 'Iron Pipe Wreck', first located in a geophysical survey carried out in 2008 by Browne and Stokes. It measures 19 m in length by 5 m in maximum width;
 - ▲ W18562, measuring 13.5 m in length and 3.5 m in maximum width; and
 - ▲ W11610, measuring 18.3 m in length and 4.5 m in width.
- 1.2.55. The remains of a 300-400 ton vessel (approx.) wooden wreck (W01629) was discovered by Marlin Sub Aqua Club in 2003 on the Kish Bank. The vessel is partially exposed on the seabed in 8-10m of water. Pottery, clay pipes, iron pots, a number of anchors, a capstan and a winch were recorded
- 1.2.56. A further eleven wrecks were located on the Kish Bank, however these either have limited or no further information provided (e.g., measurements) (W10276, W10297, W11331, W11333, W11334, W11337, W11338, W11339, W11340, W11341 and W11581 [known as the '9.5 fathom wreck']).
- 1.2.57. There are an additional four wrecks further north within the Foreshore Licence area with no information currently available on them (W10291, W10292, W10332 and W11542).
- In 1987 a wreck (W18550) off Killoughter Strand was discovered and surveyed during the search for the Aid and was initially thought to be the wreck of the Aid (W02313). It is several decades later in the date and the vessel was most likely built sometime during the late 19th century.
- 1.2.58. GSI 281 is a wreck measuring approximately 17m long, 3m wide, and lying in 10m of water. GSI 285 is a wreck measuring 4.8m long by 1m wide, in a depth of 10.8m water. COV8_03 / GSI 304 is a wreck measuring 26.4m long, 8m wide, and in a depth of 42m of water. GSI 401 is a wreck measuring 34m long by 13m wide, in a depth of 0.76m water. None of these vessels have any further information.
- 1.2.59. An additional unique wreck was listed in the INFOMAR database, located on the Kish Bank which measures 13 x 4 m (GSI 278)

Uncharted wrecks

- 1.2.60. Six uncharted wrecks were identified during geophysical survey (Fugro 2021 unpublished) Foreshore Licence (FS007029) and reported to UAU.
- 1.2.61. MA02: The Development Applications Unit (DAU) highlighted the presence of further wreck sites that had not yet been logged in the WIID. One wreck site was detailed in the letter as a new wreck site centred on 53 16.200N, 05 56.500W, measuring 21.2 x 3.7 m with a recommended exclusion zone of 300m (MA02; see Figure 1) (letter to innogy Renewables Ireland Ltd, 2019).

- 1.2.62. MA03/GM814_contact0028: An unknown possible wreck was located by the Survey Vessel Fugro Mercator 1/03/2021. The wreck was identified by Side Scan Sonar. Linear and circular reflectors are clearly visible as well as an area that seems to indicate a snagged net. The area measures 16x9m and height above seabed was measured as 0.5m. There is also a smaller anomaly (3x3m) located 46m west of the main target represented by semi-circular hard reflectors. If the anomaly is a wreck or anthropogenic debris the material is well buried within the sandy sediments of Kish Bank.
- 1.2.63. MA04/GM771_contact0102: The possible wreck is lying in a SW- NE position and is mostly buried within the sandy sediments. There are several objects on the seafloor around the wreck associated with the vessel which might represent part of the broken hull, propulsion mechanism and a bowsprit and/or mast. The Side Scan Sonar image suggests that the wreck might be a wooden schooner. The main part of the visible hull measures 16m, the hard reflector anomaly W of the main site is 5m long, the linear anomaly N of the main site measures 6m and the linear anomaly S of the main site measures 5m.
- 1.2.64. MA05: Substantial reflector approximately 15m long and 5-6m wide. Scour north and south at each end shows it stands proud of the seabed. This could be a 20th century vessel. The site was marked with a buoy and suggested to be a lost container. Also measured as: Length: 12, Width: 4m, Height above seabed: 2m.
- 1.2.65. MA07: Substantial anomaly in two parts measuring 21x6m and 7x7m. Debris on the sea floor is clearly visible on the Side Scan Sonar. Reported by the survey vessel as "Possible Uncharted Wreck (seen in mag data). Clearly a large target - wreck shaped but probably broken in two associated with a large magnetic response". The wreck location 410m from the unknown shipwreck (GSI 278) and 916m from unknown wreck reported to UAU by a previous survey campaign (letter to innogy Renewables Ireland Ltd, 2019), referred to in our reports as MA02 and 440m from SS Vesper (W01594).
- 1.2.66. MA08: Oval shaped depression 12x7m with linear hard reflectors, could possibly be wreck material or outcropping geology. Reported as "A Possible Buried Wreck (NOT seen in mag data). Possibly wood due to the absence of a magnetic response. Overall, about 8m in length and can be seen on sonar and MBES records". Not associated with any known wrecks.

Documented losses

- 1.2.67. This section has been added in order to further emphasize the archaeological potential of the Foreshore Licence area. This is a complete list of documented losses listed in the WIID and Annex 2 is a gazetteer of the 1491 documented losses that were recorded to have occurred within the Foreshore Licence area.
- 1.2.68. Within the WIID, there are over 3000 documented losses listed off the coastal waters of County Dublin and roughly 1,500 are recorded as having wrecked within the Foreshore Licence area (Annex 2). Examples of these wrecks include but are not limited to: 41 barques; 17 brigatines; 32 colliers; 10 ketches; 107 schooners; 78 sloops; 33 steamships; and 716 unknown vessels. The majority of documented losses within the WIID are post-1700 in date (Brady 2008). This is due largely to the lack of earlier written sources, and as a result, the actual number of wrecking events is expected to far exceed the current numbers.

1.2.69. The majority of wrecking events off the coast of Dublin and county Wicklow have occurred at the entrances to ports or in other shallow waters as well as on the offshore sandbanks. Within the Foreshore Licence area there are seven major sandbanks which from north to south include, Bennet, Rosbeg, Burford, Kish, Frazer, Bray, and Codling. There are also shallow areas such as the North Bull and South Bull where ships have become stranded in the past. The entrance to Dublin Bay is a challenge to navigate due to the sandbanks which run parallel to the coast and the strong tidal currents contributing to the high number of documented losses (Lowth 2002).

1.2.70. There are 379 records that are defined as having been lost within the general area of Dublin Bay. Furthermore, there are additional records within Dublin Bay stretching from Howth Peninsula to Dalkey Island within the Foreshore Licence area that are listed with more specific locations (Annex 2) These current number estimates are listed below in coastline order from north to south;

- ▲ 24 recorded off Bailey Lighthouse located on the tip of Howth Peninsula;
- ▲ An additional 111 listed as lost off of Howth;
- ▲ 161 records off the North Bull and 3 more specified as lost at Bull Wall;
- ▲ 23 records off Clontarf;
- ▲ 44 Recorded as lost off Poolbeg Lighthouse;
- ▲ 63 records on the South Bull with an additional 2 off Booterstown, and 10 off Blackrock;
- ▲ 229 documented losses off Dun Laoghaire and its harbour;
- ▲ 14 records off Sandy Cove and 2 off Bolluck; and
- ▲ 31 records off Dalkey and Dalkey Island with an addition 10 off the Muglins Lighthouse.

1.2.71. Within County Dublin south of Dalkey there are additional records which include 17 documented losses off Killiney and 7 off Shankill (Annex 2).

1.2.72. Along the coastline of County Wicklow (Annex 2) (within the Foreshore Licence area) from north to south documented losses are as follows;

- ▲ There are 110 recorded loses off Bray, and Bray Head;
- ▲ 34 recorded losses off Greystones;
- ▲ 7 recorded losses off Glen Strand;
- ▲ 6 recorded losses off Kilcoole;
- ▲ 4 recorded off Six Mile Point; and
- ▲ 14 records off Five Mile Point.

1.2.73. The sand banks within the Foreshore Licence area have been an additional cause of shipping losses. They are further outlined in Error! Reference source not found. and the current estimated casualties are listed below from north to south;

- ▲ 2 recorded of Bennet Bank;
- ▲ 9 records on Burford Bank;
- ▲ 141 records on the Kish Bank (believed to be only half the actual number (Brady 2008));
- ▲ 3 records on the Bray Bank; and
- ▲ 48 records off Codling Bank.

1.2.74. The unknown and uncharted wrecks outlined in the preceding sections could potentially be associated with any of the historical documented losses within the Foreshore Licence area and wider area, however, there is not enough information at present to positively relate or identify them. There is also the potential for earlier wrecks to have occurred along the cable route or wind farm site, for which no documentation survives, and which await discovery.

1.3. Updated wording Mitigation Measures

1.3.1. Minor changes to the wording of the proposed mitigation measures as highlighted in red are presented in Table 1.

Table 1 Minor changes to proposed mitigation measures

Mitigation measure	Summary
Mitigation Measure 1: Relevant Licences	All planned site investigation works under the Foreshore Licence must be licensed under the National Monuments Act 1930-2014. It is the responsibility of Dublin Array to ensure that the NMS 2-06 Detection Device Licence Application Form is submitted and approved ahead of any surveys utilising detection equipment and that NMS 3-06 Dive / Survey Licence Application Form is submitted and approved ahead of foreshore works or surveys on known wreck sites. It is also the responsibility of Dublin Array to ensure that all commitments as per approved licence are adhered to. This includes reporting any wrecks or areas of archaeological potential to UAU within 3 days of discovery and a final report submitted to the Archaeological Department of Housing, Local Government and Heritage, UAU and The National Museum of Ireland.
Mitigation Measure 2: Assessment of baseline and geophysical data ahead of deployment	All geotechnical and ecological core and sample locations will be assessed against 2021 survey data (SSS, Bathy, MAG, SBP) as well as INFOMAR 5m and 2m Bathy and identified cultural heritage sites. The results of the assessment will be compiled into a report and submitted to the National Monuments Service for review in advance of any works taking place.

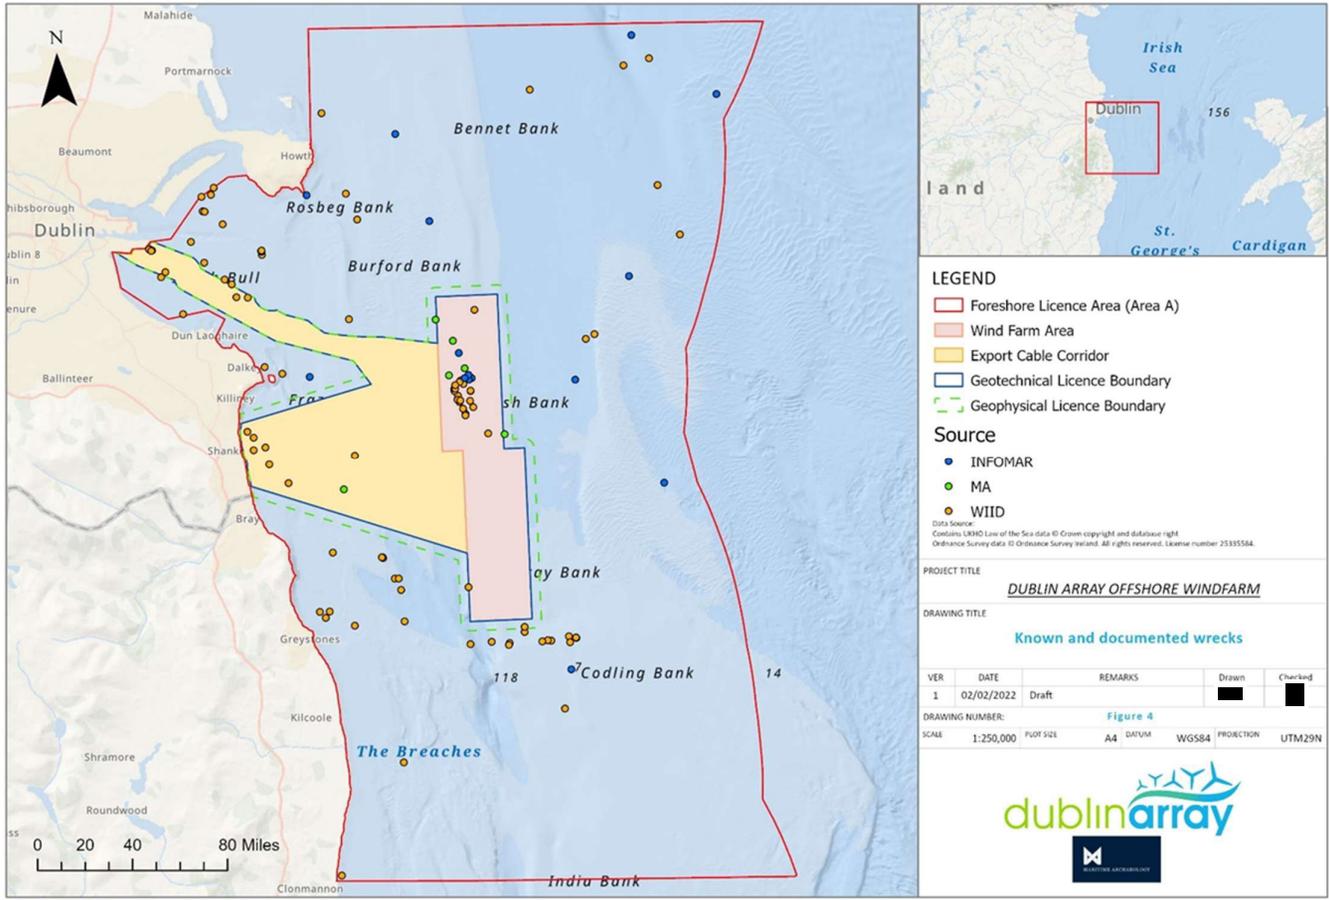

Mitigation Measure 3: Assessment of geophysical and geotechnical data following survey	The geophysical and geotechnical datasets will be assessed by a qualified marine archaeologist. The geoarchaeological assessment will outline cultural material contained within assessed core material and will highlight areas of palaeo-environmental potential. The results of the assessment will be submitted to National Monuments Service for review.
Mitigation Measure 4: Archaeological Exclusion Zones	Recommendations for establishing Archaeological Exclusion Zones (AEZ) are based on the established practice of developing exclusion zones around known wreck sites, receptors, or anomalies with archaeological potential. Archaeological Curators (Department of Housing, Local Government and Heritage) must be consulted regarding the establishment and agreement of AEZs. The design, alteration, and removal of AEZs will be subject to agreement with Archaeological Curators.
Mitigation Measure 5: Onboard archaeological monitoring/ Archaeological surveys	Where impact on unknown archaeological receptors is expected or cannot be avoided on the seafloor or within the inter tidal zone, an archaeologist will be present to ensure that all potential archaeological observations are assessed and reported. A dive/ROV or intertidal survey accompanied by a metal detection survey may be carried out to ensure that all potential archaeological observations are assessed and reported, as directed by the National Monuments Service. All planned surveys will be licenced as per Mitigation Measure 1.
Mitigation Measure 6: Protocols for training and PAD	A protocol for training to allow for any staff onboard to follow a clear and comprehensive chain of communication and recording in the case of any objects with archaeological potential being located during site investigations works deployment should be implemented as outlined in the Project Specific Protocol for Reporting Finds of Archaeological Potential (PAD). Crew on board the vessels and onshore staff will receive training and familiarise themselves with the Protocol and the reporting procedures it describes.

1.4. Clarifications on the assessment of the impacts of proposed licenced works

1.4.1. The potential impacts on marine archaeology receptors as a result of the planned project activities are outlined in Table 7 and detailed in Section 5.2 within Annex D. The table below outlines and summarises the marine archaeology receptors identified and referred to within the impact assessment within Annex D.

WIID, INFOMAR and MA ID	Wreck Name	Description	Date of Loss	Latitude	Longitude	AEZ
W02313	Aid	149-ton brig built in Quebec in 1802, classed A1 by Lloyd's. Owned by Beatson & Company, master was William Cranetch/Crantick/Cranick. En route from Leghorn to Dublin via Bristol, laden with a valuable cargo of Roman, Greek and Egyptian antiquities.	10/01/1804	53.02973	-6.04506	100
W09480	Bolivar (MV) (bow)	The MV Bolivar was a 5,320-ton cargo vessel and at the time of its loss was owned by the Norwegian shipping company, Fred Olsen. The cargo ship was laid down in the yard of Akers Mekaniske Verksted of Oslo in 1939 and was launched, ready for fitting out.	06/03/1947	53.2683	-5.9238	100
W09846	Bolivar (MV) (stern)	The MV Bolivar was a 5,320-ton cargo vessel and at the time of its loss was owned by the Norwegian shipping company, Fred Olsen. The cargo ship was laid down in the yard of Akers Mekaniske Verksted of Oslo in 1939 and was launched, ready for fitting out.	06/03/1947	53.2675	-5.9258	100
W09505	Bydand	We regret that we are unable to supply descriptive details for this record at present.	01/02/1989	53.39954	-6.03624	100
W01561	Deliverer (HMD)	UKHO wreck no. 009101858. Chart symbol wk16. 79-ton, 7-year-old British steam tug/drifter sunk by a submarine whilst on Admiralty service. No survivors. Surveyed in October 1996. Lies in a general sea depth of 23m (least depth 22m), orientated NW/SE.	03/11/1917	53.3451	-5.9525	100
W02012	Fern (SS)	UKHO wreck no. 009100428. Chart symbol 72wk. 444-ton steamship of Glasgow en route from Dublin to Heysham with a general cargo. Built in 1900 by the Ailsa Shipbuilding Co., Troon. Owned by Laird Line. Torpedoed, sunk by the German submarine U-104.	22/04/1918	53.4309	-5.7823	100

W02014	Fisher Lass (MFV)	UKHO wreck no. 009100404. 13-ton, 25-year-old Irish motor fishing boat (D 166) owned by John O'Byrne of Ringsend. Caught fire off Howth Head, burnt to the water's edge and sank. 7 miles east of Ireland's Eye. One of three crew lost.	01/10/1929	53.40667	-5.86667	100
W00883	Flying Dart (SS)	The Flying Dart was a 111-ton iron paddle steam tug, built by J.T. Eltringham, South Shields in 1882, with 70 horse-power engines. It was owned by the Clyde Company (G. Kidston of Glasgow) and the ship's master was J. Altrum.	12/08/1890	53.34743	-6.01086	100
W01790	Flying Hawk (SS)	UKHO wreck no. 009000288. 61 ton, 11 year old twin-screw iron steam tug of Glasgow. Owned by the Clyde Shipping Co./G.J. Kidston, Glasgow, master was J. Hayes. En route in ballast from Kingstown to tow a vessel. Struck a rock in SSW force 8 gale and sank.	27/10/1887	53.27778	-6.09056	100
W01572	Glenorchy	1,285-ton vessel of Glasgow, official no. 60,391. Master was Thomas Meiklejohn. En route from Greenock to Bombay (maiden voyage), cargo of coal, railway sleepers. Struck the Kish Bank, became a wreck. Crew saved. Four tugs saved materials off the wreck.	01/01/1869	53.28058	-5.93317	100
W01482	Guide Me II (HMS)	UKHO wreck no. 009000033. Chart symbol 30wk. 100-ton, 10-year-old British anti-submarine drifter sank following a collision. Owned by J. Mitchell & J. Cow. Hired by the Admiralty in 1915 and converted into a British anti-submarine drifter.	29/08/1918	53.27209	-6.05441	100
W02024	Hare (SS)	UKHO wreck no. 009100350. Chart symbol 50wk. 774 ton, 31 year old British steam ship owned by George Lowen of Manchester. Built by Barclay Curle & Co., measured L. 216 x B. 29 x D. 15 feet. Torpedoed, sunk by German submarine U-62 en route from Manchester.	14/12/1917	53.40045	-5.71552	100
W02367	John Morrison (SS)	UKHO wreck no. 009100076. Chart symbol wk. 18.3 m. A 202-ton, 51-year-old steam barquentine of Dublin. Built by Tracy/Treacy of Arklow. Measured L. 105.6ft x B. 25ft x	17/12/1925	53.08333	-5.99167	100

		D. 12.4ft. En route from Waterford to Liverpool, cargo of pit props, timber.
W09785	Kilkenny (cargo debris)	We regret that we are unable to supply descriptive details for this record at present.	21/11/1991	53.3477	-6.12005	100
W01575	Lanarkshire (SS)	UKHO wreck no. 009101834. 929-ton steamship of Glasgow. Measured L. 210ft x B. 28ft x D. 21ft. Classed by Lloyd's as '100 A1' and had last been surveyed in February 1881. Owned by Burrell and Sons of Glasgow. Master was P. Fraser.	14/01/1882	53.106	-5.85983	100
W02039	Leinster (RMS)	2,646-ton, 22-year-old steel twin screw steamer built in Birkenhead, Liverpool, by Lairds. Owned by the City of Dublin Steam Packet Company, captain was William Birch. Measured L. 360ft x B. 42ft x D. 27ft. En route from Dun Laoghaire to Holyhead.	10/10/1918	53.3143	-5.79284	100
W01828	Loch Fergus	UKHO wreck no. 009000318. 818/ 874 ton, 23/24 year old Iron barque of Liverpool / Glasgow. Classed as 100 A1 by Lloyd's. Owned by J. Sproat & Co., Liverpool, master was T. Williams. En route from Glasgow to Brisbane.	06/02/1899	53.24667	-6.10667	100

W01125	Unknown	One of 3 wrecks marked on an admiralty chart of Dublin Bay compiled by J.H. Kerr in 1874. The wreck was located approximately 200m from the low spring water mark in approximately 1m of water.	-	53.36214	-6.12834	100
W01126	Unknown	One of 3 wrecks marked on an admiralty chart of Dublin Bay compiled by J.H. Kerr in 1874. The wreck was located approximately 700m from the low spring water mark in approximately 1.5m of water.	-	53.35436	-6.13562	100
W01143	Unknown	UKHO wreck no. is 009000070. Chart symbol ST. Wreck marked near the low water mark on admiralty chart 1415.	-	53.36139	-6.13611	100
W01526	Unknown	One of five wrecks plotted on William Bligh's 1803 map of Dublin Bay. It is located in shallow water just off the South Bull.	-	53.31846	-6.11471	100

W01532	Unknown	One of 4 wrecks marked on a chart (Admiralty Chart 1415) of Dublin. It is described as “remains of wrecks” and is located in about 10m of water.	-	53.31217	-6.11119	100
W01533	Unknown	One of four wrecks marked on a chart (Admiralty Chart 1415) of Dublin. It is described as “remains of wrecks” and is located in about 10m of water.	-	53.3118	-6.10214	100
W01540	Unknown	UKHO wreck no. 009000069. Surveyed in 1931, in a depth of 2m, listed as a ‘dangerous wreck’.	-	53.35417	-6.13417	100
W01543	Unknown	UKHO wreck no. 009000045. Chart symbol NDW. Sunken yacht reported in September 1946 as being dangerous to navigation. In October 1946 Irish Lights Commissioners reported mast of wreck visible at low water. In November 1946 wreck was dispersed.	-	53.29917	-6.02083	100
W01544	Unknown	Dutch dredging company discovered a wreck in June 1989 while excavating route for new sewerage pipe. Wreck lay exposed in the southern bank of the trench, measuring c. 15ft across and consisting of a ‘wooden framework’.	-	53.32575	-6.16793	100
W01548	Unknown	Wooden wreck discovered during side-scan sonar survey as part of the Ringsend to Sutton pipeline. Wreck measures L. 40m x B. 10m and consists of two parallel rows of ship framing timbers protruding through the seabed.	-	53.36553	-6.12597	100
W01550	Unknown	Possible wreck (INSS No. G137) identified during the National Seabed Survey. Wreck measures L. 24m, W. 9m with a height of 1m off the seabed. It lies in a general sea depth of 28m.	-	53.36002	-6.01904	100
W01551	Unknown	Possible wreck (INSS No. G160) identified during the National Seabed Survey. Wreck measures L. 3m, W. 3m with a height of 3m off the seabed. It lies in a general sea depth of 9m.	-	53.33208	-6.0893	100
W01552	Unknown	One of three anomalies indicating a possible wreck (INSS No. G161a), identified by the National Seabed Survey.	-	53.33377	-6.08944	100

		Anomaly measures L. 3m, W. 3m with a height of 2m off the seabed. It lies in a general sea depth of 8m.
W01553	Unknown	One of three anomalies indicating a possible wreck (INSS No. G161b), identified by the National Seabed Survey. Anomaly measures L. 3m, W. 3m with a height of 1m off the seabed. It lies in a general sea depth of 8m.	-	53.33401	-6.08959	100
W01554	Unknown	One of three anomalies indicating a possible wreck (INSS No. G161c), identified by the National Seabed Survey. Anomaly measures L. 2m, W. 2m with a height of 1m off the seabed. It lies in a general sea depth of 8m.	-	53.33432	-6.08945	100
W01629	Unknown	Remains of a 300-400 ton vessel (approx.) wooden wreck. Discovered by Marlin Sub Aqua Club in 2003. The vessel is partially exposed on the seabed in 8-10m of water. Pottery, clay pipes, iron pots, a number of anchors, a capstan and a winch were recorded.	-	53.2621	-5.92517	100
W01630	Unknown	Wooden wreck discovered by Marlin Sub Aqua Club in 2003. The wreck is partially exposed on the seabed in 8-10m of water and is upside-down. Hull is copper sheeted. The wreck rises approximately 1m in height off the seabed and measure 17m long.	-	53.26722	-5.9325	100
W01731	Unknown	One of five wrecks plotted on William Bligh's 1803 map of Dublin Bay. It is located in shallow water, just off the South Bull, at the entrance to the 'Cock Lake'. It also appears to feature on John Taylor's 1816 map of Dublin.	-	53.32326	-6.17133	100
W01734	Unknown	Wooden wreck, known as the 'Ringsend Wreck', became exposed during dredging operations for the Dublin Bay pipeline in April 2001. A test excavation carried out on the wreck by Lar Dunne and Emer Dennehy (01E0402) revealed the wreck orientation.	-	53.33625	-6.17844	100
W02219	Unknown	Possible wreck (INSS No. G154) identified during the National Seabed Survey. Wreck measures L. 37m, W. 13m with a height of 1m off the seabed. It lies in a general sea depth of 58m.	-	53.35768	-5.76637	100

W08691	Unknown	Wreck surveyed by the RV Keery in 2010 as part of the INFOMAR seabed mapping programme. Wreck measures 4m long, 1.8m in maximum width and lies in 10m of water. GSI Wreck No_285.	15/01/1802	53.2655	-5.9305	100
